Personal Narrative

I was excited to graduate from senior high school and move on to college though I was still determining if I had done enough to get into the college of my choice. That is when I met Mrs. Smith, my high school guidance counselor. Throughout my high school journey, she helped me select suitable courses, develop a plan to improve my grades, and assist me in preparing for the college entrance exams. She was the one person who believed in me and encouraged me to push myself to achieve my goal. Mrs. Smith read through my college application text and provided me with detailed feedback and suggestions. She pointed out areas where I could improve my text, such as making changes to the structure and phrasing to make my points more straightforward. She also offered helpful advice on making it more compelling and engaging for the reader. Her feedback and guidance were invaluable in helping me to refine my text and make them the best it could be. She also spent countless hours talking to me about the college application process, helping me to understand the different requirements and what I needed to do to stand out.

Regarding interviews, Mrs. Smith provided me with practice questions and strategies to make the best impression. She explained the importance of being confident and articulate and helped me to think through my answers before the interview. She also advised me to dress appropriately, present myself professionally, and answer common questions during the interview.

She provided me with tips on answering questions effectively and making a lasting impression on the interviewer. Her guidance made me feel more prepared and confident for the interviews.

I was overjoyed when I received my acceptance letter from the college of my choice. But, I also knew that my success was partly due to Mrs. Smith's help. She was an experienced educator who had helped many students before me gain admission to their desired colleges, and she was more than willing to help me as well. She advised me on which classes to take and which extracurricular activities to join to make my application more competitive. She also assisted me in filling out all the required paperwork and navigating the admissions process. Considering my family's low financial resources, Mrs. Smith also provided me with guidance and advice on how to make the most of the resources available, such as scholarships and financial aid. She showed me how to make the most of the available resources to ensure I had the necessary funds to pursue my educational goals. Most importantly, she took the time to teach me how to budget and manage my money effectively.

Mrs. Smith also provided me with emotional support throughout the entire process, making the experience much more enjoyable. She was extremely attentive and understanding. She was always available to listen to my concerns, provide reassurance, and encourage me to keep going despite any challenges that arose. She would listen and encourage me whenever I felt overwhelmed or discouraged. She also encouraged me to take breaks and practice self-care by exercising regularly, eating healthy and nutritious foods, and getting enough sleep, which helped me stay energized and motivated. Her kind words gave me the confidence to pursue my dreams. I am grateful to Mrs. Smith for her support, assistance, and advice. Without her, I would not be where I am today.
