

Student's Name:

Professor's Name:

Institution:

Course Code:

Date:

Score 82.1

Document formatting is very good, but there is room for improvement. Document formatting issues: vertical spacing; page header. [Observations:] {Integrity}: 100%. {Length}: Just a tiny bit short (98%)—try to write a bit more. {Mechanics:} 96% (spelling 97%, grammar 100%, punctuation 92%, word choice 96%). {Citation formatting:} ungraded. {Reasoning, logic:} 62% (efficiency 51%, acuity 51%, clarity 96%, objectivity 51%).

Personal Essay

In today's world, it can be easy to forget the importance of gratitude. We often get caught up in our own lives and preoccupations that we don't take the time to appreciate what we have or recognize those who help us along the way. That is why it is so important to practice gratitude on a regular basis. This personal essay will explore how cultivating an attitude of gratitude can not only make your life more enjoyable but also lead you down a path of greater success and fulfillment. It will look at the example from my own life about how I used my appreciation for the present moment to help me move forward

It has been said that gratitude is the attitude that brings more of what we want into our lives. Moreover, gratitude is something that can shape our lives in a positive way and open us up to the possibilities of life. This was especially true for me when I experienced an incredible event during my teenage years that made me realize how much I had to be thankful for.

I remember that day as if it were yesterday. I was a teenager, living with my mom in the small town of Riverwood. We never had much money but we made do with what little we had. That day would be different though- something special was about to happen. It was summertime and hot outside, like most days in Riverwood. As Mom walked me to school that morning, she explained to me that something big was coming our way; somehow we'd managed to get tickets to a show at the local theatre! It seemed impossible- something so out of reach for us before now suddenly within our grasp! I felt excitement bubbling up inside of me – more than anything else, I felt grateful for this opportunity.

The show was amazing! We laughed and sang along to the songs, admiring the beauty and skill of the performers on stage. I felt like a different person walking out of that theatre – nothing could bring me down, not even the sweltering heat outside. Even now, years later, I still feel a sense of gratefulness for that day. It taught me that anything is possible if you have a positive outlook and are willing to work hard to achieve your dreams.

Gratefulness isn't just about having something material- it's also about appreciating life's little moments and cherishing them forever. That one summer day opened my eyes to the power of gratitude and its ability to shape our lives in a positive way. I'll never forget that day and the feeling of gratefulness it gave me - it's a reminder to always be thankful for what we have, no matter how small or seemingly insignificant. This knowledge has enriched my life, bringing me closer to those around me and inspiring me to make a positive impact in the world. Now, I'm determined to give back and share my gratitude with others in whatever way that I can. Gratitude is a feeling that will last forever. It's something I'll always be thankful for and strive to experience again.